Santorella Publications will always cherish this incredible instrument as it is an important part of our heritage. In 1898, at nine years old, my grandfather Joseph Santorella left his home in Naples to come to America. He was told to bring only the necessities. The few essentials he chose were the clothes on his back, a trowel, and his beloved accordion.

My grandfather worked tirelessly as a stone mason during the day and played his accordion nightly to earn enough to collect his family. By the time he was 15, he learned English, became a US citizen and saved enough money to bring his parents and siblings to the "Land of Opportunity". When Joseph raised his own family, it was important that all his children learned the trade and carried on the tradition of making music with a "squeeze box". Every gathering included home-made bread, wine and pasta and never concluded without a chorus of accordions playing traditional Italian favorites.

Most accordion lovers have a similar story that has fueled their desire to play. Two generations after Joseph's amazing journey, Santorella Publications has emerged as the only publisher to aggressively produce and promote new products for this magnificent instrument. Join us as we strive to keep our heritage alive.

How To Play Button Accordion

Enjoy learning how to play this celebrated instrument with Santorella's quick, fun and easy method! Since the button accordion is a transposing instrument, all music is written in the key of C. Therefore, once the student learns the notes & fingerings for just one scale, it can be applied to all other melodies written for any other button box. This simplifies the learning process and allows the student to make rapid progress. This unique course uses the solfege method of identifying notes as well as traditional notation for even faster learning. Santorella's Button Accordion Course by Henry Doktorski is the perfect introduction for anyone who is new to the button accordion and eager to learn how to play this wonderful instrument.
