Clair de Lune, arranged for alto sax and piano

Claude Debussy, arranged by Jonathan Robbins
Santorella

P.O. Box 60, Danvers, MA 01923

TS318, $8.95 www.santorellapublications.com

"Clair de Lune," arranged for alto sax (and all Eb instruments) and piano is a faithful re imagining of the famous Impressionistic piano piece by Claude Debussy in the last movement of the Suite Bergamasque. This popular theme can now be performed and enjoyed by jazz sax players in true classical style. This edition comes complete with the translation of the poem of the same title by Paul Verlaine, plus background notes on composer Claude Debussy and notes on the history of Clair de Lune. Also recommended in this series is Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, arranged for flute or violin & piano, also arranged by Jonathan Robbins (TS352, $8.95).
