

COLOR MY ORCHESTRA

"The Colors of Music" and "More Colors of Music" have shown us that art and music are indeed on the same page. We've seen that what we put to paper is an extension of what is in our hearts, souls, and minds.

These two latest specialized editions of our "Colors of Music" series, "Color my Band," and "Color my Orchestra," offer both the musician and artist another opportunity to express their individualism by combining these two important art forms into one creative process.

Students will appreciate how fun learning the various instruments of the band and orchestra can be while they, too, express their creativeness and imagination. As a teacher, there can be no greater reward than providing a learning opportunity for your students which is both educational and fun. Witness their enthusiasm first-hand as they put pencil, crayon, or marker to paper and make each image come to life in their own special way.

Discover this unique channel for self-expression as a musician, artist, educator, or student, and experience pure enjoyment and relaxation as you broaden your horizons and feed your inner spirit with this most popular and familiar art form.

Have fun and enjoy!
